CLASSICORPS FELLOWS ACHIEVE RESULTS

ClassiCorps Teaching Fellows have contributed directly to Classical's exceptional success. In 2019-2020, fellows accounted for 45% of our instructional staff and benefited from the opportunity to develop skills through a direct coaching model, structured curriculum, and free master's degree. Their impact in the classroom contributed to Classical's ability to provide scholars with the supports and instruction necessary to triumph over systemic challenges in their communities and ultimately outperform 97% of New York City public schools – including other charter schools – on the New York State End of Year Assessments.

CLASSICAL INVESTS IN YOUR SUCCESS

At Classical, we care deeply about the success and development of our staff and know that our network of high-performing charter schools is only as successful as our educators. By providing fellows with an opportunity to learn theory through their graduate program at Relay Graduate School of Education, then apply it in practice in our classrooms day-to-day, we're equipping them with the credentials and experience they need to pursue opportunities in education that extend far beyond Classical. Our rigorous, data-informed curriculum helps fellows develop their skills while feeling confident that every lesson they dedicate their time to drives scholar achievement. Additionally, our tailored coaching model ensures that each fellow develops under the guidance of an experienced coach who understands their ambitions and prepares them for leadership opportunities when applicable. Lastly, our mission-driven team of hard-working, mission-aligned educators, behavior specialists, special education professionals, operations staff, and network leaders ensures all ClassiCorps Fellows benefit from collaborating with industry experts.
